*8. DR. D. VENKATESHWAR RAO:
SHRI SOLIPETA RAMACHANDRA REDDY:
Will the Minister of POWER be pleased to state:

(a) whether any survey has been conducted on rivers to explore hydro power in the country;

(b) if so, the details thereof and hydro power potential of river Godavari;

(c) whether there is any proposal to develop Arunachal Pradesh as a a major source of hydro power in the country; and

(d) the potential of Arunachal Pradesh for hydro power?

THE MINISTER OF POWER (SHRI R. KUMARAMANGALAM): (a) and (b) Based on the topographic studies and analysis of hydrological and other related data of various river basins, Central Electricity Authority has made reassessment of major/medium schemes during 1978-87, according to which hydroelectric potential of the country has been assessed at 84.044 MW at 60% load factor. The hydro electric potential of Godavari basin is assessed at 5091 MW at 60% load factor.

(c) and (d) Yes, Sir, The hydroelectric potential of Arunachal Pradesh has been assessed at 26.756 MW at 60% load factor and out of this 16.5 MW has since been exploited. The Ranganadi Scheme with an installed capacity of 405 MW is under execution in Arunachal Pradesh. This scheme is scheduled to be commissioned in September 2002.

The two projects which are proposed to be developed in Arunachal Pradesh include Kameng (600 MW) and Ranganadi Stage II (180 MW). There are complex environmental issues arising from the need to rehabilitate families who would be displaced due to submergence resulting from the other major projects to be taken up. These Projects include Dihang Project (20,000 MW), Subansiri (4800 MW) and Demwe Project (520 MW). The survey and investigation of 15 schemes has also been taken up by various agencies like Brahmaputra Board, North Eastern Electric Power Corporation, State Government and Central Water Commission.
